

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Feb. 20

A MOST fortuitous chain of planetary influences should make this day an eventful and memorable one. Things move at a swift-moving pace into channels of progress and prosperity. This may demand a rearrangement of plans with the assistance of strange persons, new contacts and different surroundings. Travel seems imminent. New propositions and adventures are the order of the day, with old associates and systems proving a stumbling block. Social enjoyments are also a happy side issue.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a pleasant, productive and prosperous year with many new contacts and experiences. A breaking away from old plans objectives and ties is quite probable with strange places and fresh contacts desirable. Fine at multi-progress or creative work may come from inspired sources rather than through ideas. A child born on this day may be splendidly endowed with faculties for success perhaps in new channels as it should be original and imaginative possibly being inspired from hidden sources. Its disposition will be lovable, genial, generous.

RECESSION IN STEEL SLOWING DOWN NOW

Average Production Drops Only 2 Points in Week.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 19.—The recession in steel production is slowing down for the first time since it got under way the first of the year.

The national average dropped only two points last week to 69 per cent of capacity, the magazine "Steel" reported today. This compares with 66 1/2 per cent the first week in January and 94 in December, a year ago it was 55.

Individual orders for most products are small. Circumstances surrounding mill deliveries and prices encourage buying only for early needs. No serious dents have appeared in the price structure.

Some large orders have boosted heavy construction, including 16,500 tons for the Pitt river bridge, California; 11,857 for dry docks, Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; 6,398 for a Los Angeles dam; 25,000 tons for grade crossings, Rockaway, N. Y.

There wasn't anyone around. Norion wasn't stationed outside of the front door today and there were only a few people on the street, mostly women with market baskets. I wondered if the Sergeant would bother to have anyone follow me. It was grand to be out of doors. The only fresh air I'd had were the hurried trips out to meals and the ride to Fourteenth Street when I hadn't had time to breathe.

After I passed the Knife and Fork I turned back to look at a shop window and less than half a block behind me I saw Ishi. He hesitated when I stopped, crossed the street and headed back to the shop. When I saw his back turned I slipped around the corner and hailed a taxi.

At a little before noon I landed at Fifth Avenue and Eighth Street, but Dirck's long yellow roadster was already parked near the corner.

The less said about the first leg of that drive, the better. Dirck tucked me in the car, a heavy blanket around my knees, and headed up Fifth Avenue without a word. His attention seemed to be entirely on the driving, except for a preoccupied frown that showed he had something more important than the car and me on his mind.

It was noon when we started and the little sun there'd been during the morning had disappeared behind heavy clouds. New York lay in an oppressively somber mist. And Dirck's continued silence didn't make me feel any better. We drove block after block, finally turning right on Fifty-seventh Street, and I was one large question mark in regard to where we were going.

YOUR INCOME TAX

NO. 17
LOSSES FROM CASUALTIES, THEFT, AND WAGES

To be deductible, a loss arising from fires, storms, shipwrecks, or other casualty need not be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business. If his home or his automobile is destroyed by fire, or his summer bungalow damaged by flood or storm, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained.

Loss of property by theft or burglary is an allowable deduction, and need not be incurred in trade or business. Hence, the loss occasioned by the theft of jewelry or an automobile used for pleasure and convenience is deductible. It must be established, however, that the property actually was stolen. Should circumstances attending the loss leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen or lost, the claim would not be allowed.

Losses from wagering transactions are allowable only to the extent of the gains from such transactions.

A loss is deductible only in the year in which it is sustained, even though, as in the case of a theft or casualty, it may not be discovered until a later year. Losses compensated for by insurance or otherwise, of course, are not deductible. However, in the event the amount of insurance is not sufficient to recompense for the loss sustained, the excess of the loss over the amount of the insurance is deductible.

In general, losses for which an amount may be deducted for income-tax purposes must be evidenced by closed and completed transactions, fixed by identifiable events, bona fide and actually sustained during the taxable period for which claimed. For instance, a person possessing stock of corporation cannot deduct from gross income any amount claimed as a loss merely on account of shrinkage in value of such stock through fluctuation of the market or otherwise. In the case of an individual the loss allowable in such cases is that actually suffered when the stock is disposed of. If any securities (that is, shares of stock in a corporation and rights to subscribe for or to such shares) become worthless during the taxable year and are capital assets, the loss resulting therefrom shall, for income-tax purposes, be considered as a loss from the sale or exchange, on the last day of such taxable year of capital assets. Losses of individuals from the sale or exchange of capital assets are allowed as follows: 100 per cent if the capital asset has been held for not more than 18 months; 66 2/3 per cent if held for more than 18 months but not for more than 24 months; and 50 per cent if held for more than 24 months.

ARTS AND CRAFTS CLUB MEETS AT WALDO HOME

Special to The Star

WALDO, Feb. 19.—The Arts and Crafts club met Wednesday with Mrs. Alfred Donithen and Mrs. Alice Bower. The president, Mrs. Bessie Hubley, had charge of the meeting.

Earl H. Hale of Marion, spoke on "Presidents and Their Wives." A luncheon was served by the hostesses.

The Young Men's and Young Ladies' classes of the Waldo Methodist church surprised Miss me every time I see him, to find out more of my methods.

"He couldn't leave the shop just because he felt like playing hide and go seek," I said a little shortly.

Dirck grinned at that. "Nobody's going to put anything over on you, are they, lady?"

"I'm not too bright," I snapped, "but I do know when I'm being put off."

He swung the car onto the upper level of the Queensboro bridge before he spoke again. "Mr. Kimball is keeping an eye on everyone in the house," he said. "Long instructed him to. After all, he can't force you people to stay indoors all of the time. A couple of people are or were being watched carefully, but I don't believe the Sergeant is worrying about you."

"He's not suspicious of murder," I told him, "but of my morals." Mrs. Evans told him that you spent the night in my room."

He chuckled. "Then I remembered the list of questions," Dirck, someone who on my list of questions again while we were out to breakfast."

YOUR HEALTH
BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

Rare or Well Done?
IS THERE any scientific basis for a preference for rare or well-done meat?

Experimental studies of the effect on the nutritive value of food from cooking are of comparative recent date. Morgan and King showed that the more prolonged the heating, the less efficient was meat in maintaining nitrogen balance and in promoting growth in young animals. This confirms the belief of most people that rare meat is the most nutritious. You have to eat more well-done steak or roast beef to get the essential growth-producing qualities.

The proteins in wheat show the same tendency. The nutritive value of the crust of bread is less than that of the crumb. This, however, takes only the wheat.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Infatuated by Marry in Which Veritlen Approves Acting of Olinia, Mary.

"YOU WILL understand, Veritlen as Olinia and Mary took their positions, 'that Olinia's role in this scene is mostly that of harpist. She strums softly on the harp during most of the dialogue, and her only lines are a colloquy with Marry. But in order to give you the effect, I think I ought to read the lines of the other players while Olinia plays.'"

"I think so, too," he said, and then we settled down to a rehearsal of the scene as I had given it to Mary and Olinia. Everything went smoothly, and Philip Veritlen made no comment until the last line of the scene had been spoken. Then he rose and bowed elaborately to Olinia.

"My congratulations, my dear," he said. "You have given a very creditable performance, one that will be entirely adequate. Of course, much of the credit should go to Mrs. Graham, whose handiwork shows in every inflection."

Grateful for Coaching
He turned and bowed to me, and Olinia spoke hurriedly.

"I owe everything to her," she said. "I could have done nothing if you had not possessed the essential dramatic spark." I replied, but I was seething inside. How dare he ignore Mary as if she had no part in the play at all! I shot a furtive glance at her, for I did not wish to embarrass her by so much as a look, and I never was proud of her as when I saw her standing perfectly poised in the position in which she had spoken her last line, waiting for whatever was to be said to her. But I knew that dread of her father-in-law and anger against him were making her brain a turmoil.

At last he turned to his daughter and played with honors going to Clifford Leffler.

Mr. Franz, an engineer for the General Excavator Co., will leave next week on a business trip to Cristobal, Panama Canal Zone.

Mrs. Ann Russell of Portsmouth, Mrs. James Quay, Mrs. Henry Burke, Mrs. Hester Orth and Mrs. Kathryn Summers were guests when the W. A. N. Bridge club met Friday evening with Mrs. Charles Burke on Avondale avenue. Awards for high scores were won by Mrs. Robert Todd and Mrs. Lawrence Hall. Lunch was served.

Miss Florence Shackelford was presented a birthday evening by members of the O. N. O. club Friday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Andrews on South High street. Lunch was served with appointments in keeping with St. Valentine's day. Bridge awards were won by Mrs. Robert Mercer and Miss Mildred Thomas.

Two tables were filled for euchre at a meeting of the Au Fait club Friday evening at the home of Mrs. George Augstein on Henry street. First and lone hand awards were won by Mrs. Curtis Pace, second by Mrs. George Augstein, and third by Mrs. Ward Eschman. Lunch was served.

Mrs. Mark Baker of 695 Mt. Vernon avenue will be hostess for a meeting of the Scribblers club Thursday evening.

ter-in-law.
"You carried that off very well, Mary," he said in a manner more infuriating than any adverse criticism could have been. "You certainly are as admirable a student as your aunt is a teacher. Those are new lines, yet I noticed that you delivered them exactly as you do the others in which I drilled you. Both you and your aunt must be very close observers."

"I am glad that you liked them," Mary murmured, and as he looked at me, I girded myself for speech.

"The lines had to be given in exactly the same way as the others," I said. "Otherwise, there would be a noticeable break. So Mary and I very carefully worked them out together. Naturally, I am pleased at your approval."

"I can do nothing else but approve," he said slowly, "and I am anticipating a very pleasurable and enlightening experience tomorrow when we have our first general rehearsal. I have taken great pains in drilling you, Mary, and I know that your aunt has been equally painstaking and assiduous in seeing that you adhered to my teaching in every slightest detail. I am counting much upon your inspiration your reading of your lines will be to the rest of the cast."

Disconcerting Thought
His brilliant eyes were fixed upon his daughter-in-law, and I was sure that my imagination was not playing me false when I detected mockery in his eyes. Suddenly I felt as if the blood in my veins were turning to ice. He was planning, I was sure, to humiliate Mary by stripping the role from her, as we had been afraid he would do. After that I could not help but doubt the sureness of my own plan for foiling his plot.

Was Mary really as good in the rendition in which I had drilled her behind Philip Veritlen's back as I had thought she would be, or were my strong prejudices in her favor blinding me?

Young Mothers! Do What Your Mother Did About COUGHING COLDS

3 Out of 5 Mothers Use This Home-Proved Treatment

You are right to worry when a cold strikes your family. You should take steps, at once, to relieve the misery and suffering. But you want to be sure that what you do is really helpful. You don't want to take needless risks. Now here is what most mothers do. They use Vicks VapoRub. Since 1893 Vicks and their doctors have studied ways to treat the distressing symptoms of colds. Today three out of five mothers are benefiting by this forty-year study of colds when they use VapoRub and let its amazing potent vapor action go to work. PROVE IT BY THEIR EXPERIENCE. Do it! If it's a coughing cold, melt a spoonful of VapoRub in a pan of boiling water, and breathe in the soothing medicated vapors. Then mass Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest, and back and go to bed. PARAGUAY PRESIDENT DECLARES DICTATORSHIP

By The Associated Press. ASUNCION, Paraguay, Feb. 19.—A decree by President Gen. Jose Felix Estigarribia making himself virtual dictator of Paraguay because "our nation has reached the edge of horrible anarchy" was received with calm throughout the nation today.

ROTARIANS ATTEND SPECIAL SERVICE

Hear Sermon Touching on Organization's Anniversary.

Seventy members of Marion Rotary club and their wives and 25 members of III-Y club attended a special church service at First Presbyterian church yesterday morning as part of the local observance of the 35th anniversary of Rotary International.

"Speaking on the subject, 'Our Debt,' Rev. Howard L. Cleveland, pastor of the church and a member of the Marion Rotary club, used as his text 'I am a debtor to Greek and to barbarian,' from Romans.

"We possess things only when we share them with others," he said. "Sharing is the cause of the values of our possessions and so long as we do not share them they are worthless."

"Through more than 5,000 clubs in over 60 countries, Rotarians have spread the idealism of service over the self and have given evidence that they are pushing Rotary thinking and idealism throughout the world."

The Rotary movement is helping keep religious tolerance intact, he said, by developing understanding between Protestants, Catholics and Jews, all of whom are represented in Rotary clubs.

Members of the Marion club will entertain their wives and friends at a Ladies' Night dinner at Hotel Harding tomorrow night. Rev. Scott, who was in charge of the service, will show motion pictures of various phases of Chinese life including scenes of the Chinese-Japanese war.

Resignation Plans of Woman Pastor Canceled by Pleas

The practically unanimous request of the congregation that she remain as pastor of the Church of God caused Rev. Lillie Swick Sunday to recall her resignation which she announced last week.

When Rev. Swick stepped into the pulpit to deliver what was to be her farewell sermon Sunday evening, she was presented a petition signed by practically the entire congregation asking her to remain as pastor. Later in the evening a standing vote was further evidence of the congregation's desire to have her retain the pastorate.

Rev. Swick has accepted the pastorate for an indefinite time, she said. Ill health over a period of several years and a desire for a period of time in which to recuperate preparatory to going into the evangelistic field caused Rev. Swick to present her resignation last week.

Wednesday evening the Young People's prayer meeting will be held at the parsonage on Silver street. There will be a social hour following the service.

CLARIDON, Pleasant, Caledonia and LaRue emerged as semi-finalists in Marion county's Class B basketball tournament at the close of Saturday's cage warfare on the Marion Steam Shovel court.

Ohio College Cagers on Home Stretch

By The Associated Press COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 19.—Ohio's college basketball season is in the home stretch of the 1933-34 season, with the pace-setting Wooster team facing a pair of tough opponents.

Forty contests, two in the Big Ten, 14 in the Ohio Conference, and 14 with out-of-state foes, are on the week's program. After this week's flurry, only 33 this remain in the campaign.

John Carroll of Cleveland, which means Wooster Friday night, loomed today as possible "giant killer" following its surprising 46-27 win over Notre Dame Saturday night at South Bend. A loss to Carroll would just about wreck Wooster's championship hopes in both the Ohio loop and state-wide races which the Scots are now leading.

Ohio university, which hopped from sixth to second place in the state-wide standings last week with wins over Muskingum and Xavier, has three contests on tap.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By EDDIE BRIETZ

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The Louis-Goddy fight films were sharply edited for the South American trade-to make Arturo look his best... Railroads operating ski trains out of New York say last year's biz will be more than doubled... It now is warm enough in the far south for the Alabama baseball candidates to work outdoors... If the Red Sox wanted to reveal the figures you'd probably find they paid nearer $50,000 than the reported $75,000 for Dominic DiMaggio.

Majors Raid Association

The major league's biggest talent raids this spring have been made in the American association, according to Dillon Graham, Associated Press sports editor. Typical AA stars grabbed for the 1940 season are Jimmy Pofahl, above left, and Harold "Pee Wee" Reese, right. Pofahl was bought from Minneapolis by Washington for $40,000. Reese, hailed as the star of the AA crop, was purchased by Brooklyn from Louisville. Reese, a shortstop, is a nifty baserunner and hitter. Some 42 other Association players will get tryouts with the majors.

MIDWESTERN SHOOTERS TO CLASH AT COLUMBUS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 19.—Attracted by a chance at national ranking, approximately 300 small-bore rifle marksmen will compete at Fort Hayes barracks next Saturday and Sunday for the 15th annual midwest championships.

For the first time, the meet will be conducted under National rifle association sponsorship.

Ohio's 17 top-flight stars, already ranked in the first 100 of the nation are expected to shoot against 18 others from Pennsylvania and 13 from Illinois, Miles E. Goll of Dayton, secretary of the Ohio Rifle and Pistol Association, said.

CANTON TOPS MANSFIELD

MANSFIELD, Feb. 19.—Canton McKinley Bulldogs registered their fifteenth straight by whipping Mansfield, 34-32, here Saturday night. Mansfield led until late in the third period and the visitors did not clinch the decision until the final seconds. It was McKinley's second win over Mansfield this season.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 19.—George Pace, Cleveland Negro recognized by the National Boxing association as world bantamweight champion, will defend his title March 4 at Toronto against Lou Salica of New York. Pace signed for the fight yesterday, a week after Salica accepted terms.

MT. VERNON WINS AGAIN

MT. VERNON, Feb. 19.—Mt. Vernon's Yellow Jackets, after suffering their first loss in 15 starts at Marion Harding, Friday night, bounced back in the win column with a 34-32 victory over Columbus North here Saturday night. North won the reserve game, 30-25.

WINTER GOLFING POPULAR

Many golfing clubs have winter groups playing regardless of the weather. Some of the rules for the snowbird golfers are: ball buried in snow may be dug out without penalty; lost balls may be replaced and played from where they presumably landed; all putts must be holed out; ball may be lifted and cleaned; player may improve the lie almost any place. Most players use red balls.

New Deadline

WAR being, with rare exceptions, a seasonal avocation, the setting of seasonal deadlines for conclusive action is part of the war habit.
It has its uses in building morale at home and shattering morale abroad.

The English now are being warned by commentators, if not by their own defenders, that some time between March 1 and March 31 they are to be blown to glory by German bombers.
This deadline is set by the fact that the famed English fog is dispelled during March.

From the fatalistic point of view, therefore, it would seem that the life of the British empire is limited to less than six weeks at the most.
The thing Adolf Hitler and Hermann Goering have been threatening to do for the last two years is about to take place.

Perhaps the most penetrating comment that can be made on the new war, however, is to say that no one, including the English in all probability, expect that doomsday is going to arrive on schedule. Doomsday is seen this long after the actual beginning of war—and the end of the war of nerves that preceded the actual war—to have been a device of coercion like "blitzkrieg" Europe's fate is not going to be settled by a lightning stroke in the fall when the harvests are in, or in the spring when the fog blows out. It is going to be settled over a long period of years by arduous processes difficult to follow and rarely reaching a climax that can be discerned, except arbitrarily by historians dozens of years afterward.

When April comes and after it, May and June, the British empire still will be doing business at the same old stand and German imperialists still will be promising to wipe it off the face of the earth when the harvests are in and the fogs have cleared. The empire may disintegrate, but it won't go pop—like a toy balloon.

"Uncle!"

THIRD term speculation has gone into some soaring flights of fancy, but a new attitude record is set in comment on James Roosevelt's marital problems.

When James filed suit for divorce last Thursday it promptly was interpreted as a sign his father would not run for a third term because the filing of a divorce suit by a member of the family would embarrass him politically. Or, to view the proposition in reverse, if the President intended to run for a third term his son would not get a divorce at this time because of the critical comment it would stimulate.

In view of the Roosevelt family's actively upheld reputation for doing as it darned please even if father is in the White House, this is the all-time limit in third term speculation. Even those who claimed to know the President's intentions by looking at the furr on caterpillars and observing the moss on trees are ready to say "Uncle!" after this one.

Proposition

NO cheers from the fighting tops and drill grounds have greeted the proposition by a congressman to discontinue army-navy football games because they stimulate competition between the two branches of the service.

Competition is the spice of life. Drawing on the lively instilled in them at Annapolis and West Point, the admirals and generals compete in a friendly fashion year after year for appropriations.

Right now the admiral is so far ahead it isn't even funny. But the generals aren't complaining. The navy can't win all the time. The army's chance is coming, they feel sure. Even though they're coming off second best they're getting more than they ever got before without a war for a talking point.

No Spooing or Trespassing

EVERY landlubber knows the United States navy with the help of South America's mosquito fleet can't enforce a no trespassing rule against belligerents in a 300 mile area off the North and South American coasts. It's too much territory.

But that doesn't make a particle of difference.
The rule in this case is more important than its enforcement. What no trespassing means to the belligerents, including Great Britain, which is complaining about it, is perfectly clear.

Belligerents will fight in or adjacent to the Americas at the risk of incurring the displeasure of Americans. There are non-belligerent rights just as much worth protecting as belligerent rights. The European war is not wanted in the new world.

The British, afraid of losing some advantage if the rule is permitted to stand, argue that it can't be enforced equitably so therefore should be discontinued. They are borrowing trouble when they worry about the enforcement problem.

There are millions of no trespassing signs stuck up throughout the world that can't be enforced equitably. But they convey the idea that trespassers are unwelcome and in the wrong.
If the British don't get the idea—if any other government doesn't—would they welcome the United States into European territorial waters for an American war? No one gets more than one guess for this question.

News Behind the News

British Protest Against U. S. Sales to Russia Leads To Arrangement To Halt Shipments.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—The British have come in protesting again to the state department, this time quietly without announcement, complaining against United States shipments of tin and rubber to Russia. They argued with redoubled anger that the United States is getting these two products mainly from British possessions.

The shipments were obviously destined for Germany. So she was in fact supplying her enemy by reason of American treachery.

It is apparently true, or was,
A New York rubber dealer is known to have sold America 5-000 tons of rubber (according to trade, but state department figures are less). Funny part is that the indiscreet dealer who defied President Roosevelt's ban on strategic war materials because America offered a high per pound premium price is not an American, but the New York agent of a British firm. Even the stolid British protector had to laugh at that one.

Upshot of the matter is the British are taking care of their New York agent and the state department has promised to suppress any Americans tempted by high Russian bidding. State department will write a sassy letter to any such person hereafter and will make the letter public to the press.

Morgenthau Troubles

Mr. Morgenthau is sinking fast into the whirlpool of troubles he stirred up for himself as White House liaison man with the British purchasing agents. Already the British agents, a half dozen plane manufacturers, and congressmen are doing what they can to aid his descent. The half dozen plane men came trooping into town to squawk against the treasury secretary's reported plan to concentrate foreign orders in the three largest airplane manufacturing concerns. The treasurers had a plan of their own which called for Mr. Mor-genthau to treat them right on deductions for plant expansion on their tax returns. Mr. Mor-genthau did not like their plan any more than they liked his.

The airplane groups poured their woes into congressional ears and the congressmen are getting ready to say publicly what they are already murmuring in private about Mr. Morgenthau trying to be a purchasing fustler etc. etc.

Another Worry

If plane financing does not sink Mr. Morgenthau, his efforts to arrange orderly liquidation of foreign securities—which was the real purpose behind his appointment to the job—certainly will.
Inside negotiations have reached a stage where London Ambassador Joe Kennedy has been running about town trying to arrange government loans on British holdings of American securities. He took up the thread where Morgenthau left off when Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones decided it would be illegal for his concern to make such loans directly. Something may be worked out along the line of letting individual British banks and holders of American securities borrow from the RFC and then deposit the money in the credit of their government here.

The question is of paramount financial importance to this government as British selling is rather generally acknowledged to be one basic cause of recent stock market declines.

Vacation Melodrama

Most thrilling melodrama enacted here since the last "Uncle Tom's Cabin" tent show closed is Mr. Roosevelt's vacation trip.
Screaming newsmen have been met by all officials with tense denials and mysterious asides which have led to the unanimous conclusion that the President relished the theatrical role and wanted the event interpreted as if he were Eliza perilously crossing the ice.

The secrecy and stageplay can not be traced to any increase in threats against the President's safety. Information at the White House is that no such increase is notable. The only belligerent submarines that have been reported in the Caribbean were those one or two Mr. Roosevelt elited in press conferences from time to time at the outbreak of the war.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL V. McNUTT
They Drove 100 Miles To Watch the Sunset

This is the fifth in a series of weekly articles telling you about the families of possible candidates for President of the United States.

By SIGRID ARNE
Associated Press Writer

slim and beautiful Mrs. Paul V. McNutt put down the Chinese silver teapot and chuckled.

It was 5:30 p. m. in their gold and green hotel apartment. Her husband, who had brought in four Indiana friends, sat sipping tea in a big, white leather chair.

She was talking about his flying. "There was once I worried," she said, "just once. He was taking off from a tiny Indiana air field.
The pilot told me, 'We'll salute before we head off.' So there I stood in a corn field, alone, shan-ing my neck to catch the salute.
I thought they meant that gesture the army uses. They were 3,000 feet up."

Then suddenly the plane took three awful rolls. I put my hand to my mouth and shouted, 'Stop that Paul!'

Some time later she found out what a pilot means by "salute." She has never worried about flying since.

It's his turn to chuckle when she asked where she was born.

"Why, she never lived until she married me," he says.

They both chuckle. She explains, "Other writers just ignore me up to my wedding ceremony."

A Texan By Adoption

So here's something about her.
Her people were French, name-"Timolai." Her great-grandfather was a New Yorker of means who entertained Lafayette. His wife's portrait, a lovely lady in crimson velvet, hangs over the Mc-Nutt's mantelpiece.

The Negro butler, in a white linen suit, passes trays of tiny sandwiches. He's very solemn.
Mrs. McNutt nods after him and says, "He and his wife have been with us for 16 years. They went to Manila with us."

The McNutts liked Manila. He was high commissioner. They had a favorite spot, 100 miles out of Manila, which they used to visit to see spectacular sunsets. Their chauffeur added to the trips. He was a native named "Ambrosio." He felt important blowing the horn. So he blew it a great deal.

They're Both Golfers

The McNutts want to go back to the Far East, particularly to China.

They both play golf, but never together. She says he's "never invited me." He grins at her affectionately. He likes an occasional all-night poker session. She arranges for the food and then disappears. She says she's good at poker, so-so at golf.

McNutt really likes clothes and owns many suits, which the house-boy presses after each wearing. He looks best in light gray. And, by the way, he looks less like a movie-hero in real life than in pictures. Those pictures have his campaign managers worried. They think they make him look too handsome.

He doesn't act like a movie-hero, either. He is easy-going, affable, has a sense of humor. His wife says he was the only man who ever got A-plus in trigonometry at Indiana U. He is a Phi Beta Kappa. She wrinkles her nose and says, "What is trigonometry anyway?"

He Writes Talks In Texas

She likes to hear him make speeches—he likes to do it. She has never seen him write a speech nor practice one. Apparently he just marshals the sequence of ideas he wants to present as he talks to the hall. He particularly likes rough-and-tumble question sessions.

They both shudder about one open forum in Indiana. One of McNutt's enemies used to heckle him. He posed the question, Mc-Nutt answered. And then the man dropped dead where he stood.

"Poor man," she says, "he seemed so angry."

Both of them helped establish

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, Feb. 19, 1930 Harry M. Wheeler was elected president and general manager of the Chamber of Commerce and in its annual meeting.

Petitions of the Congressional Districts Modification League, through which the league hoped eventually to bring about modification of the Eighteenth amendment to a point where manufacture and consumption of beer and light wine would be legal, were being circulated in Marion.

Mrs. George B. Knapp of Frank-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Allen Wright of Youngstown.

Members of the Round Table club held their annual guest day party at Hotel Harding. Features of the program were two one-act plays presented by club mem-

Mrs. L. C. Stang, Mrs. W. F. Pas-

It was Thursday, Feb. 19, 1920 A Washington dispatch reported that England, France and Italy had already begun to clear the way for independent action, free from all American influences, in the event the U. S. senate refused to ratify the Treaty of Versailles.

Dr. David Bowers, former pas-superintendent of the Delaware M. B. district, died suddenly at his home in Delaware.

J. W. Llewellyn, who had been deputy county auditor since Oct.
20, 1918, resigned his position effective March 1 to enter the

The Marion county chapter of the Red Cross met at the Tally

Maj. George T. Guran presided and speakers included Mayor T.
E. Andrews and Maj. J. W. Mc-says, "I don't know much about Seems the McNutts have been

He and his father, 75, an attor-son goes home.

She says, "Don't you know about the Hoosiers? It's said they

Here's Glimpse at McNutt's Record

Paul Vories McNutt has followed four things vigorously: law, politics, the army and education.
He was born in Indiana 48 years ago, studied at Indiana U. and Harvard, was in the army, entered Indiana U.'s teaching staff in 1917, was dean of the law school 1925-33, governor of Indiana 33-37, Philippines high commissioner, 37-38, federal security administrator, '39.

He's been on legal and editorial boards, governors' commissions, he doesn't know whether he's suplike to be.

THE American Youth Congress has come and gone, and there is left behind a sour taste in the mouths of those who were most eager to patronize this organization. They felt that it heralded, not only a sizable vote but also, the eternal springtime in which the weary earth renews itself. But somewhere in the Youth Congress lacked the charm of youth. Though its adult sponsors welcomed it with peacocks of rhetoric about the glory of the young and the glorious failures of the mature, a few days of the Youth Congress in person brought them no inspiration and much dismay.

The fact of the matter is that these youths were rather shockingly ill-mannered, disrespectful, conceited, ungenerous and spoiled.
They booed the President of the United States, which is never decent thing to do, even if booing is supposed to be an exercise of civil liberty. They were so rude to the wife of the President of the United States that she had to ask them to be good enough to let her finish what she was saying. They had the impudence to sit in the galleries and boo at the congress of the United States. They were possessed with the notion that they were in Washington to tell the country what the country owed them but scarcely a word was uttered about what they owe to the country.

There has been much discussion about how many of them were Communists and how far they are under Communist control. They answered the question beyond any reasonable doubt. As to what Communism really is, how it operates, what it leads to, the great majority were obviously almost completely ignorant. A weather vane is in the same sense ignorant of what causes the winds to blow, now from one quarter and now from another. But like a weather vane the opinions of the Youth Congress were nevertheless pointed infallibly by the winds of doctrine which blow from Moscow.

Hypnotized by Moscow?

It is not necessary to know how many of them are active members of Communist organization. The fact is that they are hypnotized by Moscow. So they are for the Spanish Loyalists. Moscow supported the Loyalists. They were undoubtedly against Neville Chamberlain when he was trying to appease Hitler, Moscow was then against appeasement. Now they are so super-neutral between right and wrong, between the aggressor and his victim, that Neville Chamberlain is a war-monger and Finland is beyond the pale of their sympathies. Moscow has changed its policy. They are still, no doubt, very sympathetic with the Chinese; Moscow is still supporting the Chinese. If and when Moscow comes to terms with Tokyo, we may depend upon it that the leaders of the Youth Congress will discover that General Chiang Kai-shek is a fascist, a war-monger, and that he is trying to draw the United States into war. In short, they are not revolutionaries. They are dupes.

What is serious about this is not the nature of these opinions but what has been revealed about how, as a result of recent theories of education, this new generation, or at least an articulate part of it, has learned to form its opinions.
So-called progressive education is based on the notion that if you remove authority and discipline and tradition in the upbringing of young people, the unobstructed natural goodness of their hearts and minds will by spontaneous creation bring them to good ideas.

The fact is however that if you remove authority and discipline and tradition, what you create is an unsatisfied need, a vacuum which is then filled by some tradition and by some other form of authority. Thus you emancipate the young from the alleged tyranny of their own elders, and before you know it, they are hypnotized by an alien tyranny. You
